Various online shops for jewelry have long since recognized the trend. Customers can design jewellery online with a 3D configurator according to their personal preferences, e.g. as a wedding gift or simply as a thank you for their loved ones.

In this paper we would like to analyze the potential of jewelry configurators from the perspective of corresponding online providers. The core question is „Is it worth investing in a jewelry configurator at the present time? „.

Since a jewelry configurator is integrated into the website via the homepage, the focus here is on an online analysis.

In a first step, we will analyze the demand for jewelry configurators with Google's Keyword Planner using various keywords. This will be followed by a trend and competitor analysis of the most important competitors, in some cases in the form of key points.

Finally, an overall assessment is made on the basis of the findings.
